Improvement Ideas:

1. General visual cleanup. Play around with spacing, padding, margins to make the site less cluttered. I don't think there's too much, just a little compacted.
2. Better contact links. You have some cool font and link effects, and the email, linkedin, etc. is plain by comparison
3. I would recommend making more general css declarations (setting general h1, p, img code instead of giving everything its own id and doing all the code through that). It would clean up the code and make things easier to change later if you want. Obviously this is just personal preference, though.
